September 26, 2007

Odessa Technologies, Inc., innovators in lease management software, introduce the availability of LeaseWave[®], a .NET based workflow enabled lease management system

Philadelphia, PA - September 26, 2007 - Odessa Technologies, Inc., will participate as an exhibitor at the 46th Annual Equipment Leasing and Finance Association Convention in Orlando, Florida where they will introduce the latest additions to their suite of lease management software products.

"We are thrilled to contribute these innovative solutions to the industry," said Madhu Natarajan, CEO of Odessa Technologies, Inc.

The added solution is a dynamically definable decisioning-system that allows for automated workflow management; it is built right into the suite such that control over any decision in any module can be exercised.

"The LeaseWave[®] WorkFlow solution aims to improve efficiency for lessors. It best highlights Odessa's core philosophy of continued and rapid business improvement."

With its Microsoft .NET 2.0 based LeaseWave[®] suite, Odessa strives to maintain its three core principles:

- Technological Superiority - LeaseWave lease management software is consistently built on the latest and most cutting-edge technologies available, using industry-standard/best practices in development and system architecture;
- Configurable & Customizable Design - LeaseWave leasing software is specifically engineered to be configurable and customizable, to meet specific and changing requirements on an ongoing basis; and
- Functional Comprehensiveness by serving clients from diverse branches of the lease industry, from computer leasing to medical equipment leasing, LeaseWave lease software has gained in functional richness, applicable across many sub-industries, and a broad-based platform that inherently allows for future growth.
